Severe pay compression: 2 male Trainee(s) — the LOWEST classification — earn more than Candace who holds the SENIOR title: ABRAHAM, JOSE, DEANY, DENNIS.

Section 4: Key Findings & Conclusions

1. Candace earns $2,254/month ($27,052/year) less than the male average in her own title.

There are 46 male Rehabilitation Counselor Seniors. Their average pay is $8,654/month vs. Candace's $6,400/month. 45 of 46 male RC Seniors earn more than Candace — only 1 earn less.

2. 45 out of 46 male peers (98%) out-earn Candace within the same title.

The highest-paid male RC Senior, DELGADO, DOMINGO, earns $9,600/month — $3,200/month more than Candace. The pay band for RC Senior ranges from $6,000 to $9,600/month.

3. Candace is paid near the bottom of the RC Senior pay band.

Candace's pay of $6,400/month ranks her #178 out of 189 total RC Seniors (all genders). Among male RC Seniors only, she would rank below all 45 who earn more.

4. Mid-level pay compression: some lower-classified males earn near Candace's level.

The male RC mid-level average is $6,506/month. 8 male mid-level RC employee(s) earn at or above Candace's pay despite holding a lower-classified position. This suggests either promotion delays for Candace or inadequate step placement upon promotion to Senior.

5. Candace earns appropriately more than Trainee males.

The male Trainee average is $5,800/month. Candace earns $600/month more than the male Trainee average — a reasonable differential for the Senior title. However, 2 Trainee male(s) earn above her.
